

PWS Training Options for Professional Providers Outside of California

Prader-Willi syndrome (PWS) presents unique and complex challenges for professional service providers. That’s why Prader-Willi California Foundation provides training free of charge to professional service providers anywhere in California who support someone with PWS.

We also offer fee-based training to providers outside the state of California who serve someone with PWS in the residential, vocational, and day program settings, as well as those who provide volunteer opportunities for persons who have PWS. Our trainings are grounded on best-practice protocols and are heavily focused on effective, state-of-the-art behavior management interventions.
